

CAMBRIDGE

FOR LOVERS OF ART AND GARDENS
TUESDAY, 7 MAY 2019

Between 1958 and 1973 Kettle's Yard was the home of Jim and Helen Ede. In the 1920s and 30s Jim had been a curator at the Tate Gallery in London. Thanks to his friendships with artists and other like-minded people, over the years he gathered a remarkable collection of 20th-century art, both paintings and sculpture. At Kettle's Yard Jim carefully positioned these artworks alongside furniture, glass, ceramics and natural objects, with the aim of creating a harmonic whole - not "an art gallery or museum". In 1966, the Edes gave the house and its contents to the University of Cambridge. In 1970 the house was extended and last year a new gallery for changing exhibitions was added.

Cambridge University Botanic Gardens has a collection of over 8,000 plant species from all over the world and it is a beautiful place for all to enjoy.
